Hanaku AG is pleased to announce that it has hired Guillaume Taylor as Chief Executive Officer starting the 1st of January 2023. Guillaume will implement Hanaku's strategy to invest in small scale sustainable and resilient infrastructure projects predominately in the sectors of Sanitation Economy, Renewable Energy and Life Sciences.

Guillaume brings to Hanaku over 30 years of investment finance experience. He started his career as a credit and treasury specialist at Intel Corporation. He then went on to work within the private banking industry with Darier Hentsch & Cie (now Lombard Odier) and as a partner with de Pury Pictet Turrettini & Cie Ltd. In 2010 he founded Quadia SA, a leading impact investing asset manager.

Guillaume has developed vast knowledge of social and environmental solutions throughout his career thanks to his involvement on the board of foundations leading nature conservation movements. At Hanaku, Guillaume will strengthen the company's equity base to enable it to take strategic stakes in companies providing real asset management solutions across specific small scale infrastructure value chains, a key driver to provide strong bases for sustainable development.
